

EDITORIAL

CIENCIA is reaching its second year with Volume 2, Number 2. For next year 1995, we are planning to have three issues: January-April, May-August and September-December. This is due to the fact of a significant increase in the amount of manuscripts sent to our editorial office for intended publication in CIENCIA. Scientists from our faculty as well as from outside are considering CIENCIA as a reasonable option for their research works. We are pleased of this situation and will continue to work for a solid, serious and multidisciplinary journal, capable of coping with the expectation of the Science Community. Thanks again to the authors, reviewers, indexing agencies, to CONDES and to friends, who made true our dream for keeping CIENCIA running on time.

Happy new year 95 to all of you.
