

EDITORIAL

Writing time for CIENCIA's editorial is becoming an enjoyable duty. This communication link with authors, readers, and sponsors is needed to express ideas about this novel journal. We are trying to reach scientists from all around the world to whom issues are sent to get their attention and interest. Exchanges with many research centers, institutes, libraries and societies are becoming more and more frequent. CIENCIA is open to criticism and to new ways to approach the vital contact between peers. New journals appear almost every day in all kind of science disciplines. Hence, authors are surrendered by multiples possibilities to write good research papers. We realize that a hard competition is going on against prestigious journals; still, we offer CIENCIA as an alternative for scientists. Try us and you will not be disappointed. Have a good summer time.

Romer